

Chart a new course.

Nonprofits across the country are experiencing funding challenges like never before. It is becoming increasingly vital for the nonprofit sector to shift from funding strategies that are reactive to solutions that are new, cutting-edge, and proactive.

Tom Triplett, licensed Minnesota attorney and principal of Triplett Consulting LLC, is a national leader in helping nonprofits become self-supporting and financially sustainable. Tom offers nonprofits the knowledge, insight and tools necessary to identify and access profitable revenue streams.

No matter how seemingly bleak the financial outlook, there are alternative revenue strategies that can be accessed, and Tom's six step program is an effective and proven methodology leading to awareness and action.

Choose a format that works best for you:

1. Select a 90-minute overview of nonprofit finance options including the Revenue Matrix Tool and process.

2. Organize a four-hour workshop where your nonprofits bring their laptops with the Tool loaded. They complete the first three steps of the Matrix process on-site and learn how best to complete the remaining steps on their own or with peers.

3. Get the most out of the Revenue Matrix Tool with a four-week course: one session per week. This option offers attendees the opportunity to complete the entire process – usually working with peers with the week between each session used to refine the basic tool. During the course, Tom offers personal consulting and mentorship for every attending nonprofit.
